A: Comprehension (20 marks)

Read the following passage and answer the questions:

Long ago, Muslim countries were among the most advanced nations. They loved knowledge and worked hard to help their communities. They followed Islamic teachings which valued learning, caring for the environment, and kindness toward all living beings. Muslim scholars made great progress in medicine, built hospitals, invented algebra, and helped improve agriculture and architecture. Sadly, many libraries were destroyed during invasions, causing a loss of knowledge. The passage ends by asking what new things we are creating today.

1. What made Muslim countries advanced long ago?
2. What were some contributions of Muslim scholars?
3. Why was a lot of knowledge lost in Muslim lands?
4. How does the passage inspire readers to think about the future?
5. List three contributions made by Muslims in science or education.
